Court Action Stops Dolan's Recall; Battle Quits, Too

Superior Court Judge Ralph Drummond has ordered Bernard J. Dolan and Saul Weingarten to appear in court January 29 to respond to charges made by Seaside's interim city attorney Donald H. Smith.

Drummond also ruled that the alternative writ of mandate he issued, which ordered Seaside City Manager Milton Farrell to accept the recall petitions of the Seaside Citizens for Good Government, be dissolved until after the court appearance of Dolan and Weingarten.

This action came as a result of Smith's allegations that Weingarten was in violation of the State Bar Association's rules of professional conduct by representing the citizens group. Dolan is president of that organization.

Smith said that the rules forbid an attorney from accepting employment "adverse to a former client."

And, Smith pointed out, Weingarten was representing the citizens group in court against the city of Seaside, when he asked for a writ requiring Farrell to accept Dolan's petitions. This is against the Bar's rules since Weingarten was Seaside's city attorney for 15 years until last November when the City Council ousted him.

Additionally, Smith said, Weingarten is still an attorney for the Seaside Redevelopment Agency, an agency of the City of Seaside. Thus, representing the Dolan's group,according to the city attorney, constitutes representing conflicting interests.

Drummond's action, then, stopped the recall efforts of the citizen's group.

On the same day that the court action was taken against the Seaside Citizen's for Good Government, Edward Battle and Mrs. Emma Costa announced that they were ending their recall campaign against Mayor Louis Haddad.

Although Battle claimed his group had 1680 signatures (more than enough to recall Haddad), they failed to file their petitions by last Friday's deadline.

The reason for this, Battle said, was that his committee decided not to file in the interest of "harmony within our city."

But, he added, should the action against the other four city council members--Stephen Ross, Pearl Carey, Jerry McGrath and Oliver Murray--continue, they will renew their efforts against the Mayor and "will not stop until Mr. Haddad is removed from office, regardless of how long it takes."

Attorney Smith pointed out that if this group did plan to renew their efforts, they would have to start the petition process all over again.

No Peace In Sight

As soon as all looked peaceful on the Seaside political horizon, another recall action broke out here.

The third recall campaign in as many months began when notices of intent to circulate petitions were filed in the city hall against all five elected officials.

Not surprisingly, the letters of intent, filed by former City Planning Commissioner Epifanio Cruz and Albert J. Lioi, were almost carbon copies of the original letters filed last November by Bernard J. Dolan's Seaside Citizen for Good Government group.

The reason for that probably is that Lioi was the co-signer for those petitions filed against four city council members -- Stephen Ross, Pearl Carey, Jerry McGrath and Oliver Murray.

This latest action come as a result of the court action which upheld City Manager Milton Farrell's decision to not accept the petition of Dolan's group.

The action also come after a separate recall action against Mayor Louis Haddad was not filed by the deadline and, thus, killed.

According to sponsors of this movement, the petitions were not filed so that the turmoil in Seaside could be brought to an end and peace would reign supreme.

Obviously, they made an error in judgement because it seems that the problems are starting all over again, unfortunately for our city.

The peace and Tranquility that we had hopes for last week has been shattered again by the announcement that there would be a new recall movement to remove our city councilmen. The forces that had gathered over 1680 signatures to recall Mayor Haddad made a futile peace gesture when at the last minute they did not file their "Recall Haddad" petitions. They didn't file because they felt that the Dolan forces, who were trying to recall councilmen McGrath, Ross, Murray and Carey, had failed in their attempt to obtain enough signatures to qualify for the recall and that therefore there would not be the necessity of holding a recall election at all. They had enough signatures to institute a recall against Hadd, but evidently held off with the hope of bringing some political peace to this harrassed community.

But, it seems that the stakes are higher than many of us may realize. It seems that "control" of this city must mean much more than just the holding of a political office. It must be of tremendous importance to those who would institute one-man rule again in this city to deny the voters the chance to be represented at City Hall. No, the everday ordinary citizen doens't have the right to have representation; that "right" is reserved for the elite, big "special interests" who know better how to "govern." They must have a puppet like Haddad that they can dictate to. Democratic control of a city even as small as Seaside might

Teachers Take Stand on Salary Issue

Statistics reported to the Representative council of the Monterey Bay Teachers Association revealed that Monterey Peninsula Unified School District teachers' salaries rank nearly the lowest in the country

MPUSD salaries were compared with those in six other districts in Monterey County and with Santa Cruz and Santa Clara schools.

Districts included in the study were Alisal Elementary, Pacific Grove, Pajaro Valley, Salinas Elementary and Salinas High. Of these nine districts MPUSD salaries rank seventh for first year teachers who hold a bachelors degree and a credential. They rank ninth for teachers with more experience.

For example, a teacher in his seventh year in the district with a bachelors degree, a credential, plus an additional 1-1/2 years of college earns $9,845, a salary lower than than of all other districts for teachers of similar experience and education.

Ateacher with twelve years experience and twoyears of college beyond his BA and credential received $12,490. The comparable salary in all other districts is higher.

The Represantive Council heard the report at their regular meeting Thursday, January 14, in the Monterey high School cafeteria. They acted in favor of an initial wage proposal for 1971-72 which will be submitted for approval to the MPUSD Board of Trustees on Monday, January 18.

This inital proposal is for a 15 percent salary increase for all teachers, which will bring them nearly up to the state average.

The Certificated Employees Council of the MBTA, which represents 761 teachers in the MPUSD drafted the proposal. They reported that from 1968-69, the national consumer price index increased over 16¢. During the same period of time the average salaries of all California teachers increased 21 percent, while MPUSD salaries increased slightly over 12 percent.

The Council also voted to request a 21 percent salary increase for the present school year from funds just made available to the district under Public Law 874.

Teachers had entered this school year with a 1,8 percent increase over last year.

Wood's Bill Will Form New Committee

Asemblyman Bob Wood has announced that he was introducing legislation creating a State Power Plant Siting Committee. The intent of the bill is to provide an orderly process for balancing the electric energy requirements of the State with the broad interests of the public in preserving the environment and ecology of California.

Wood, who was Vice Chairman of the Assembly Committee on Natural Resources and Conservation during the 1970 session, worked with this proposal successfully last year in gaining Assembly approval. Later, however, it was defeated in the Senate. The bill is basically an outgrowth of a study completed at the request of the Joint Committee on Atomic Development in Space.

It would create this Siting Committee to review and evaluate proposed sites for the location of power plants. Public notice and hearings would be required, and close scrutiny would be necessary before any approval by the Chairman of the Committee. The Committee will consist of twelve California State department representatives involved with ecology or conservation, representatives from the general public and from local regulatory boards.

Wood said, "We cannot throttle industry in its responsibility ot provide electrical power for the needs of an ever-increasing population in California. On the other hand, we cannot ignore the environment in attempting to work out a solution for the orderly development of California's power needs."

Wood went on to say that the bill, as introduced, is only a working draft. He hopes to meet with the State conservationists and representatives from industry to guarantee a strong and workable program.

Last Chance For Spring MPC Students

The final opportunity to take Monterey Peninsula College's placement examination has been announced for Monday, January 25, 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. in MPC Lecture-Forum 103. Participants are asked to bring a No. 2 pencil.

The test is required of all new fulltime day students enrolling for the spring semester and all part-time day and evening students planning to take courses in English, speech or any of the social sciences.

Exceptions are students who have completed English 101 or its equivalent in a college.

It was emphasized by an MPC official that the test is not an "entrance," examination, as such. Results of the test are, rather, used by counselors and the registration office in "placing" students in classes commensurate with the idvidual's ability to achieve.

MPC is open to all high school graduates and others 18 years of age and over "who may profitably pursue a course of study."

The spring semester opens February 1.

Proposed Bills Will Help State's Retarded Children

State Senator Donald L. Grunsky has introduced legislation to lower from five years to three the age limit for education programs of the preschool trainable metally retarded and setting forth additional conditions under which severely mentally retarded minors may be given special education programs until their 21st birthday.

Grunsky, who introduced the legislation at the request of the San Luis Obispo County Schools, said the bills are consistent with legislation already enacted to lower the age limits for infant blind and deaf.

James R. Barlow, Administrator of Special Education in San Luis Obispo, explained, "It has been proven that a child's learning pattern has been set by the age of five. This is especially true of a normal child when there are no special problems. When a parent is faced with the problem of a severely retarded child, the problems are two-fold and early help is essential.

Grunsky added, "I have been impressed with the Federally financed experimental programs carried on in the county under Jim Barlow's direction and feel strongly that California should undertake such a program in all school districts."

One bill will give school districts greater elastisity in designing programs to train those mentally retarded, who are normally turned out by their 18th birthday.

Grunsky said, "I am informed and believe that these programs administered effectively would present no unusual costs to the local districts.

The measures are expected to have the full backing of the California Council of Retarded Children and the local association for retarded children.

Volunteers Needed to Stop Suicide

A new training session for Suicide Prevention Center volunteers will begin on Tuesday, February 23, according to Mrs. Kim Canavarro, director of training.

Those completing the comprehensive instruction and practice are asked to contribute four hours a week including a once a month duty period on a weekend.

Minimum age for volunteers is 18 years. Prospective members are carefully screened by a psychiatrist to determine their emotional capacities for this demanding and rewarding work.

A few hours of your time may save a life.

Adult School Spring Term Begins Soon

Spring classes in adult education will begin February 1, 1971, according to Gerald O. Anderson, principal of the Monterey Adult School, Monterey Peninsula Unified School District.

Registration for these classes will be held January 25, 26, 27, and 28 (Monday through Thursday evenings) from 6:00 to 10:00 p.m. at the Monterey High School adult office or at the Seaside High adult office.

"Persons interested in enrolling in a specific class should make every effort to register as early as possible, as some classes will be closed when they are filled to capacity," Anderson said.

The spring program will offer basically the same courses as those offered in the fall, with a few new coursed added.

In addition to the general education courses offered there is a wide variety in apprenticeship classes, vocational classes such as radio and television repair, auto mechanics, metal machine and lathe operation, sewing, typing, and shorthand, as well as nurse's aide and orderly training and dental-medical receptionist.

English and citizenship classes for new citizens will be offered and, for prospective parents, the preparation for parenthood class should be of interest. Physical fitness for women is always a popular class.

A complete schedule of classes offered by the Monterey Adult School is published in brochures which may be picked up at either of the adult school offices.

For further information regarding the adult program, interested persons may call 649-7386 or 649-7188 Monday through Thursday evenings between 6:30 and 10 p.m.

Plan Asks for Reform of Property Tax

"Now is the time to tax properly, before the taxpayers revolt," declared Board of Equalization member George Reilly recently in offering to Governor Reagan and the 1971 Legislature his "Reilly Plan" for "doing something about the property tax situation," Reilly said. "There have been warnings from the public of dire consequences unless something is done."

"Something was not done," he said, noting that as a result, "in almost every county in California the property tax rate increased."

Reilly believes that something can be done now. "We must keep in mind that the total tax take is not going to o be reduced until government costs are reduced and worldwide spending by our federal government is stopped; otherwise our plans for tax reductions are in vain."

Reilly, a member of the Board of Equalization since 1938, who represents the First Equalization District (San Francisco and the counties of San Mateo, Santa Cruz, Santa Clara, San Benito, Monterey and San Luis Obispo), has suggested this program:

Give homeowners the same consideration given to income property and small and large businesses; that is, ability to deduct expenditures from their state and federal income taxes.

"Why should the homeowner not have the same privilege as the businessman?" Reilly asked. Permitting the homeowner to take a tax deduction when making home improvements would, Reilly said, "create jobs and remove the ghetto-like appearances of property."

The federal and state governments should take over the entire cost of the welfare programs, removing the burden from the local county taxpayers.

Remove the prohibition against granting the homeowner's exemption to persons receiving public assistance.

"These are the people most in need of the homeowner's exemption," he said. He noted that the matter is now in litigation, but urged removal of the prohibition regardless of the outcome of the suit.

The entire cost of higher education above the high school level should be on a statewide basis to bring about uniformity of costs and opportunities. "This way no school district will be richer than another district," he said.

The federal government should share revenue with the states.

In 1969, Reilly noted, "approximately $15 billion was extracted from Californians for federal government expenses." At least $1 billion of this should be returned to California to take care of the cost of higher education, Reilly believes.

"The property tax, wisely applied, could be the best and fairest of all taxes, but in practice today it may well be the very worst," Reilly said. Some of the tax reforms now being proposed "could wind up making homeowners pay more taxes than less."

"A temporary refund to local property taxpayers is not the answer and certainly not the cure," Reilly said.

He said that he will devote the coming months to work with the Governor and the Legislature to bring about the tax reforms he has suggested.

Bill to Aid Cyclists

State Senator Donald L. Grunsky recently introduced legislation aimed at providing greater safety for riders of motorcycles.

Senate Bill 26 will require the use of a headlight during day and night, whenever a motorcycle or motor-driven cycle is operated on a highway.

Grunsky said his bill was drafted following recommendations by researchers at the Institute of Transportation and Traffic Engineering at the University of California, Los Angeles.

Derwyne M. Severy, head of the research project, has concluded that motorcyclists face many of the same hazards as pedestrians, but with increased exsposure due to the motorcycle velocity.

Severy said, "Additionally, the probability of a cyclist becoming involved in a collision is greater than that of a operator of passenger vehicles because of the relative inconspicuousness of a motorcycle and rider.

"Drivers of passenger cars, trucks and buses scan their intended path ahead for hazards, and may overlook an approaching motorcycle because these drivers are generally expecting to see other vehicles having the size of a car or truck," "Severy theorized.

Grunsky added, "Experiments conducted at UCLA demonstrated a great improvement in motorcycle recognition, day and night, when the headlamp was operated.

"I am pleased to sponsor this legislation, which hopefully will mean a slowing of the climbing accident rate among motorcycle riders."

set too great an example of people governing themselves without the help of outside interests

These interests must control the Planning Commission and the Urban Renewal agency so that they can decide where and how each piece of real estate in the city is going to be used. They want to make sure that the real estate is used in the manner and by whom they decide. Why? Because there is a lot of money to be made in the buying and selling of real estate and the putting of buildings thereon. The recall movement was only started when the people of this community elected two new city councilmen McGrath and Carey who were opposed to the Laguna Grande Project that our former city council wanted to turn into a motel-tourist-trap. The people of this city were overwhelmingly against this kind of development and wanted a development in Laguana Grande which would more realistically create economic growth and jobs for the community. This is what triggered the recall in the first place. Real estate and nothing elas. No, I take that back. It isn't only real estate and the money connected to it. It is the bigotted attitude of many people in this community that the common ordinary man-on-the-street isn't really capable of governing himself. They think he needs the help of big business to show him the way.

Look at the desparation moves made by those who would recall our city council. First, they didn't qualify because they didn't have enough legal signatures. Even the City Manager, who has until recently, been under the influence of Haddad, couldn't get himself to certify the petitions they presented. So, they must have been pretty bad. Second, when they go to court to get the petitions certifird, they can't get a lawyer in time to represent them. So, in desperation, Saul Weingarten comes to their rescue. But, Weingarten is the former Seaside City Attorney and he is also the Attorney for the Seaside Urban Renewal Agency, a city agency and also , Weingarten is no novice attorney in anybody's book. He knows that an attorney can't repersent anyone against a former client (The city of Seaside– and that there is a "conflict of interest" if, while representing a city agency, an attorney represents someone against that very city who is paying part of the bills. They must have all known this, but, in their desparation, they went ahead into court anyway. The judge soon told them where they stood and gave them until January 29 to straighten out the mess they were in. The probably figured that they would never get out ot that self-made tangle so they decided to start all over with a new recall.

It seems to me that the people of Seaside have had enough of this turmoil. The businessmen of this community are caught in the crossfire of the opposing forces. City government is brought to a standstill and city employees are constantly harrased. This is what the forces, who brought on the turmoil in the first place, want to happen so that they can point to this very same turmoil that they created and say, "See, they don't know how to run our city." It is so obvious that I am surprised that some of the people who have been hypnotized by Haddad don't see through it.

The decent citizens in this community must put a stop to this continuing farce. They must form committees to help these beleagured four city councilmen who are singlehandedly trying to protect their interests. The City Council must boldly move to take over the Urban Renewal Agency which the state law gives them the authority to do. The Urban Renweal should be back in the hands of the citizens of Seaside and out of the hands of Haddad and Weingarten who would use it to further those "special interests" that would like to control our city.

Letter to the Editor

Editor: Recently my family moved to the Monterey Peninsula. We are very happy with the community, scenery and weather. The only thing that has caused us disatisfaction is the lack do an educational television station. Educational television has many worthwhile programs. Since we have a boy at the Sesame Street age an educational television station would be especially valuable to us.

Please tell me why this area does not have educational television.

Thank you. I enjoy reading your newspaper.

PG&E Foresees Business Rise

Pacific Gas and Electric Company's annual Market Outlook survey foresees a continued even-paced business rise in 1971 in its 48-county Northern and Central California service area, marked by these major trends:

An estimated 10 percent rise in new housing construction over 1970 or 72,000 single family homes and apartment units. Residential building and continued active commercial development are seen as principal strengths of the economy this year, leading to some increase in employment.

A projected population growth of 105,000 persons, a rate slightly faster than the estimated 1 percent national average and an increase in new family formations. PG&E expects to add 60,000 new electric and 54,000 new gas customers to its lines in 1971.

An increase in total employment in seven metropolitan areas estimated at 2 percent, personal income up $5.5 billion or 6 percent over 1970 in the state as a whole and a $1.1 billion or 5.6 percent increase in taxable retail sales in PG&E's service area. The company foresees sales by dealers and installations by home builders of more than 1.5 million major gas and electric appliances in 1971.

California has moved up dramatically in manufacturing from eight place among the states before World War II to a close second to New York now. Energy consumption forecasts indicate the 1971 economic outlook for each major industrial category.

The annual PG&E forecast, released by Joseph Y. De Young, vice president-commercial operations, is the only regular projection specifically related to the northern two-thirds of the state. It contains analyses by the company's marketing research and services department, based on standard economic indicators plus data gathered by the company's 123 local business offices.

The report gives special attention to the increasing energy requirements for environmental improvement.

Among developments it notes are the following:

Advanced municipal sewage treatment plants are being installed by many cities. These are a major source of electric power demand and some also use gas to incinerate sludge.

Many industries are installing processes for control of stack emissions and other sources of air pollution. Nearly all of these require energy for operation.

Higher street lighting levels are being used to cut nighttime traffic accidents, reduce crime and beautify city streets. Many shopping centers now do more than half their business after 6 p.m., the PG&E publication says. Night recreation outdoors, aided by new high intensity light sources, is increasingly popular.

The San Francisco Bay Area Rapid Transit system will begin operation in 1971. Handling 30,000 passengers an hour at peak, the system will be a major user of electric power.

The report notes that a further stimulus to business in the Bay Area is the rapid expansion of hotel and convention facilities.

In the three years 1970-72 San Francisco will have added about 6,000 new hotel rooms, a 40 percent increase in guest space over 1969.

After a tourist trade volume in 1971 about equal to last year, PG&E foresees a resumption of the area's long-term upward trend.

Tourist business produces an estimated $3.5 billion annually in the state as a whole, it is noted.

For additional energy to supply the growing electric and gas demand from these many sources, PG&E will spend $470 million in 1971 and nearly $2 billion in the four years through 1974.

San Jose Police Chief Ray Blackmore will open the day's activities in the College Union with a talk at 8:45 a.m. on managers' planning for outbreaks of violence during times of unrest.

Swap shop sessions in such areas as fires and explosions, medical emergencies, drugs and industrial safety, noise, fleet safety and construction industry safety problems will be held throughout the day, featuring resource experts.

All sessions will conclude by 4:15 p.m.

Registration and inspection of exhibits will take place at 8 a.m. Tuesday morning. The $8 registration fee will include lunch.

Jerry Bailey Show Wows Convicts

Jerry Bailey & The Fugitives recently walked on stage in the Central Facility Gymnasium of the California Correctional Training Facility at Soledad, to give, what the inmates say, was the best show they're ever had.

From the start of their opening number, "Blistered," Jerry Bailey-vocalist and accoustic guitar, Jim Davidson-bas guitar, Will Boren-lead guitar, Jim Wyatt-piano and Miss Lois Van Zwol-drums, kept the convict audience of more than 100 an an uproar with the rhythm of their Johnny Cash style country and western music.

Will Boren, lead guitarist and Jerry Bailey's "pride and joy," was electrifying with his flying fingers. Many times his performance was drowned by the deafening applause of the inmates.

Miss Lois Van Zwol, the beautiful red-headed drummer, who, according to Jerry Bailey, is one of those new inventions on the outside called "women," was a big hit with the inmates.

Jim Wyatt on piano captured the audience with his Jerry Lewis style rendition of "I'd Still Be There."

Some of the show favorites were: "28 Minutes To Go," "How High's The Water, Warden?", "Goin' To Jackson", "Green Green Grass" and "Rock Island Line."

The inmates at Soledad, gave three separate standing ovations to Jerry Bailey as he sand... "Sunday Morning Sidewalk", "Cocaine Blues" and "That Old Egg-Suckin' Dog."

Credit Card Losses Are 'Alarming'

In its monthly newsletter to the banking industry, Decision Dynamics, Inc. estimates that credit card losses due to fraud exceeded $50 million in 1970.

According to DDI vice president Albert Gaskill, "all indications point to a charge card volume of $3.8 billion for this year, accompanied by alarming losses due to fraud."

This sales volume falls somewhat short of industry estimates for a $4 billion year.

"Although the day of the large individual fraud loss now seems limited to isolated situations, it is extremely dangerous to measure future potential losses against good past performance," says Gaskill.

"A case in point is that of a bank which previously experienced an average fraud loss of less than $10,000 per month and then was hit with a $300,000 loss in single month," he says.

According to Gaskill, one of the key areas responsible for this sharp increase in fraud is merchant collusion.

Most banks, he says, are slow to react on suspected merchant fraud and, once discovered, they are reluctant to take all steps necessary to alleviate the problem.

From recent surveys, Gaskill concludes that banks should follow the pattern of large retailers, who are closely tied together in matters of security, yet are still very competitive in all other areas.

Until all controllable fraud losses are eliminated, it will be almost impossible to accomplish a forecasted profitability, he says.

Decision Dynamics is a management consulting firm serving the banking industry in the charge card and marketing fields.

VA Labs Pass Test

In a nationwide proficiency survey program of the College of American Pathologists, Veterans Administration clinical laboratories were found to compare favorably with non-VA laboratories and demonstrate a greater uniformity of results.

VA said this was revealed in a comparison of data for 1968 through 1970, after the laboratories analyzed specially prepared samples provided by the College of Pathologists.

Explaining the survey procedure, VA said laboratories in the program receive the same series of samples to be analyzed, but the results that laboratories are expected to reach are known only to the College of American Pathologists.

The results of each laboratory's tests are compared with the average of results obtained by all survey participants. These results are also compared with those of referee laboratories selected for their proficiency by the College of American Pathologists.

Artificial Kidneys Will Be Available

Use of "artificial kidneys" for the home-care of veterans with chronic, long-term kidney disease will be expanded widely during the next two years, Administrator of Veterans Affairs Donald E. Johnson announced recently.

Hospital care for veterans who need regular use of an "artificial kidney" is available at the present time at 35 VA hospitals, including a VA hospital located in Los Angeles. Some units for home use also have been provided.

The VA Administrator said he has been advised by VA Chief Medical Director Dr. Marc J. Musser that home care for suitable chronic patients will be much more convenient for the patients and less than half as expensive as hospital-based care of this type, after the initial expense of setting up the necessary training facilities for patients and attendants has been accomplished.

Home dialysis training activities will begin soon, Johnson said, at 10 of the 35 hospital-based "artificial kidney" centers. Fifteen more VA hospital "artificial kidney" centers will initiate training programs in Fiscal Year 1972.

Long-range plans call for training units at each of the VA hospitals currently operating artificial kidney centers, called "Hemodialysis Centers" and at all such centers that may be established in the future.

VA's hospital-based hemodialysis centers now serve approximately 1,000 patients with severe chronic kidney disease who otherwise would die within weeks or months. Patients must come to the hospital two or three times each week to have their blood cleansed of impurities, which under normal conditions are removed through their kidneys.

It is estimated that at least half of these patients will be suitable for home care, thus drastically reducing the required number of hospital visits.

The first 10 home dialysis training units, located on the basis of population density of eligible veterans, are being established in New York (Manhattan VA Hospital), Chicago (Hines VAH), Los Angeles, Boston, St. Louis, Miami, Oklahoma City, Pittsburg, Denver and Nashville.

Additional facilities planned for Fiscal Year 1972 will be located at hospitals in Albany and the Bronx, New York; West Haven, Connecticut; Durham, North Carolina; San Juan; Washington, D.C.; Albuquerque; Houston; New Orleans; Cleveland; Indianapolis; Iowa City; Minneapolis; Salt Lake City and Seattle.

No Early Reservations Accepted

State Parks and Recreation Director William Penn Mott Jr. has issued a reminder that reservations for campsites at state park campgrounds will not be accepted for more than 90 days in advance.

"We are already starting to get mail requests for reservations from campers who want a campsite over the Memorial Day weekend or for some period during the summer season," he said. "Unless the first day of the reservation period falls within 90 days of the date of application, the application will be returned unfilled."

Mott explained that in the past his department had accepted camsited reservations all the way through to the end of the calendar year, but that many complaints had been received from persons who could not plan more than a few months ahead.

"Now," he added, "those who can't plan their vacations early in the year will not be at a disadvantage. They will have as good a chance as anyone else of getting a reservation in any state park campground during the peak season."

Confirmed paid campsite reservations may be made directly at any one of more than 230 Ticketron computer terminals around the state, or by mail to the department's headquarters in Sacramento.

For information regarding applications and fees visit any Ticketron terminal, any state park, write or visit the Reservation Office, State Department of Parks and Recreation, 1416 Ninth Street, Sacramento 95814.

Your Social Security

By: Raymond MacDonald

Q. My wife and I have both worked full-time since our marriage 10 years ago. We are both concerned over the Social Security contributions she must pay, especially since she can get payments on my work record. Why deduct from my wife's earnings when she can get payments whether she works or not?

A. It's true that your wife could qualify for payments on your Social Security record whether she works or not. However, an important consideration is the valuable protection she has built up as a result of her own work. Now that she has worked 10 years, she can be assured of a benefit on her own record at 62 or later. She can receive this benefit even if you continue to work after her retirement. Also, the chances are that the benefit on her own record will be higher than the benefit payable as a dependent wife. Your wife's work also gives her disability protection if she should become disabled before 65. If you have children, they also would be eligible to receive survivors benefits based on her work. And, in the event of her death, a lump-sum death payment would be made even if you had no children.

(Mail your questions to Social Security, c/o Post News-Sentinel, Seaside or phone Social Security office 373-3351).

Grooving Around the Peninsula

with Betty Mann

Hi There, Fellow Peninsulans:

Happenings last week were highlighted by a "Presentation Tea" sponsored with pride and pleasure by the members of the Monterey Peninsula Cotillion League in honor of the M.P.C.L. debutantes of 1971. The affaire was held January 10, at 3 p.m. at the Casa Estrada Adobe, Monterey. Mrs. Rose Beene, president of the League, opened the afternoon festivities by welcoming the 200 guests to the tea. A massive table adorned by two beautiful silver coffee and tea services complimented the table setting that held a delicious array of assorted tea cakes and hors d' oeuvres. Two mothers of the prospective debutantes poured coffee and tea for the fashionably attired guests. The debutantes were each formally introduced to the audience by Mrs. Mary Burden, vice president of the league.

A program that was originated and sponsored by the debs followed the introductions. The theme of the program was titled, "We've Only Just Begun." The debs will continue to use this title as their theme song during the Cotillion ball and other festivities during the year. The program for the afternoon consisted of poetry readings, solos, creative and ballet dancing, musical duets, skits and a hilarious pantomine skit titled "from diapers to debutantes." This really had the crowd in stiches. A fashion show followed the skit; each deb designed and made each outfit that was shown to the audience. These included gaucho pantsuits, midi pantsuits, party dresses and, to climax it all, one deb was thinking "ahead" and made a complete bridal wedding outfit.

Mistress of ceremonies for the afternoon was Miss Betty Sapp, who is also the coordinator and development advisor for the debutantes; Mrs. Doris Drummond, was fashion narrator for the fashion show; yours truly, who is scholarship chairman, was in charge of the tea and presented two lucky door prize winners with two beautiful floral centerpieces. Mrs. Ruthie Watts, who is charm advisor for the debutantes, assisted in the formation of the afternoon program. The prospective debutantes will make their formal debut on February 13, in the Grande' Ballroom at Del Monte Hyatt House, Monterey at the M.P.C.L. 2nd Annual Cotillion Ball. Debutantes who will be presented are as follows:

The Monterey Jazz Festival in cooperation with Monterey Peninsula College and the National Association of Jazz Educators will present the first California Honor High School Jazz Festival Saturday, June 5, 1971 at the Monterey Peninsula College in Monterey, it was announced recently by Festival Chairman, Dr. Herb Patnoe.

"This Festival" according to Monterey Jazz Festival founder and General Manager, Jimmy Lyons, "is part of our continuing effort to nurture budding talent and to provide the valuable performing experience and exposure which is so important to the development of young jazz musicians."

The Festival, which is open to qualified California high school stage bands and jazz ensembles, will include a day-long competition by participating bands and special clinics in jazz techniques conducted by professional jazz musicians and educators. A banquet for all participants hosted by the Monterey Jazz Festival will also be held on Saturday at which awards and scholarships to summer jazz stage band camps will be announced. The scholarships will be awarded to outstanding instrumentalists.

On Saturday evening the winning high school band will appear in concert in the Monterey Peninsula College gymnasium with a professional "name" band to be announced at a later date.

In addition, the winning band will be the guest of the Monterey Jazz Festival at its Fourteenth Annual event on September 17, 18, 19, 1971 and will be featured during the festival's Sunday afternoon concert. Judges will also select an all-star band from among participating bands which will be the guest of the Monterey Jazz Festival for a week prior to the event when they will be rehearsed by professional jazz musicians in preparation for their appearance, with professional jazz composers, conductors, and artists, on the same Sunday program.

The deadline for applications to the Honor High School Jazz Festival is May 1, 1971. Further information and application forms may be obtained by writing to : Dr. Herb Patnoe, Festival Chairman, De Anza College, Cupertino, California 95014.

We would be very pleased to have you come that we may have the opportunity of showing you your hospital.

Even if you have only 2-3 hours each week to give to the hospital, your services are very much needed.

MPC Music Scholarships To Be Awarded

Several $200 music scholarships are soon to be awarded to qualifying Monterey Peninsula College students, graduating high school seniors and others eligible to enter MPC in the spring, Dr. Harvey Marshall, music department chairman, has announced.

The awards, funded by the Monterey Jazz Festival will be announced following instrumental auditions at the college February 11.

Winners will receive five montly payments thereafter during the spring semester, provided that a monthly scholarship evalution shows maintenance of a 2.2 grade point average in music courses.

Interested students who perform on brass, woodwind, percussion or string instruments or piano are urged to secure application blanks from Dr. Marshall or music instructor Dan Haerle at the college as soon as possible.

These, accompanied by high school transcript (for graduating seniors) and, if available recommendation from a music instructor concerning citizenship and "musical contribution to performing groups," must be returned to Dr. Marshall by February 5.

A statement of need may also accompany the application and will be weighed in the judges dicision "when talent and proficiency appear to be equal."

Applicants will be notified of their application status and time for their audition on February 11.

Each auditionist will be allowed ten minutes to perform as well as additional time for a second instrument, if desired. Each will be expected to play a solo written for his instrument or an extended passage from a band or orchestra piece.

RECEIVES CHARTER

The Omicron Nu Chapter of the Omega Psi Phi Fraternity, Inc., Charter Presentation Program was held January 9 in the Galleon Room, Officers' Club, Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey. The Omicron Nu Chapter is composed of both civilian and military Omega Brothers of the Monterey Peninsula.

Highlights of the program consisted of a speech by Mr. Stephen E. Ross, Seaside City Councilman, welcoming the new chapter to the challenges of the community and stressed the need for professionalism in solving local problems. The Charter was presented by Brother Philmore Graham of San Jose, District Representative, to Brother James Manning, Seaside, Basileus of the Omicron Nu Chapter. Brother Graham rendered a brief history of purpose of the fraternity, pointing out that the new chapter means a wealth of service and brotherhood to community. Accepting the charter, Brother Manning pledged the Brothers to the improvement of the community through action, words and deeds.

Brother James Poe served as Master of Ceremonies. Music was provided by Brother Thomas Groce.

10th STREET CHAPEL WEDDING

Renee Lucile Burchette, Eldest daughter of SSG and Mrs. Rosevelt Williams of Seaside, was united in marriage to Douglas Wainright Carr on Friday, December 4, 1970, at the 10th Street Chapel, Fort Ord, with only the immediate family present. Chaplain Norris L. Einertson officiated at the ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The bride wore a white, Lily-Ann coat dress ensemble, trimmed in red fringe. Her finger-tipped scalloped veil was held by a crown made of pearls, designed and made by her mother. She carried a bouquet of white carnations.

Stephanie and Mechelle Williams, sisters of ther bride, were her attendants.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Carr of Charlotte, North Carolina, chose his brother, Eddy Carr, to serve as best man.

The bride attended Kentucky State College and Monterey Peninsula College. Her husband also attemded MPC and is presently employed as an insurance agent for Allstate Insurance Company.

On Saturday, January 9, at the NCO Club, Fort Ord, a reception was held for the newlyweds, with approximately 100 guest attending.

The table was beautifully decorated with a three-tiered wedding cake trimmed with red roses and white swans. Guests also enjoyed tasty trays of hors d'oeuvers.

Following the reception, a cocktail party was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the newlyweds opened their many beautiful gifts.

Following a honeymoon in Reno, the newlyweds will reside in Seaside.

Out-of-town guest attending the reception were Mr. Dennis G. Bourgeois, Sr., great uncle of the bride from East Orange, New Jersey; Mr. and Mrs. Dennis G. Bourgeois, II, uncle and aunt of the bride of San Ramon; Dennis G. Bouregois, Jr., Oakland and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnson and Mrs. Aylean Smith of San Francisco. The family was pleased to have Seaside Councilman and Mrs. Stephen Ross and the officiating minister in attendance.

OUT OF TOWN GUESTS

Mr. Willie Robinson and Mr. Lee Fowler of Seaside were more than pleased to have had their sister, Mrs. Miner Williams of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania visit with them during the holidays. Mrs. Williams arrived on Christmas Eve. While here, her brothers and sisters-in-law entertained her royally. Mrs. Lee Fowler prepared Christmas dinner for all families and their close friends. Mr. and Mrs. Jules Garland hosted an elaborate cocktail dinner in honor of Mrs. Williams in their beautiful home in Marina. The visiting guest toured the Peninsula and was taken on shopping sprees by Mrs. Willie Robinson. To wind up her glorious week stay, she brought the New Year in at the Non Commissioned Officers' Club at Fort Ord. Mrs. Williams enjoyed seeing her newphews, Michael and Derek Fowler again, and meeting for the first time her two-year nephew, Keith Robinson.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bass and their son Dwayne, were highly elated to have had a visit from Mrs. Ida Mae Jones of Chicago. Mrs. Jones is Mrs. Bass' mother. During her two week stay on the Peninsula, she was guest of many of her friends whom she had met during previous visits. As a repeater, which Mrs. Jones enjoys so much, are the tours around the Peninsula. She loved the drive down the coast towards Big Sur; shopping on the wharf; visiting the Carmel Mission and the excitement at Santa Cruz. Her niece, Cardelia Jones of Oakland, drove down to the Peninsula and joined the family during various plans. Mrs. Bass and her mother flew to Los Angeles for a three day visit with Mrs. Jones' sister, Mrs. Mattie Mae Reed.

Cranston Heads Drive For Space Shuttle Project in California

Senator Alan Cranston is forming a statewide task force of business labor and government leaders to campaign for locating a proposed new NASA space base in California.

Cranston said he is asking State and Congressional leaders of both parties to join him in forming the task force aimed at securing the space agency's "Space Shuttle" launch and recovery base, which may cost up to $400 million dollars and create tens of thousands of new jobs for California.

Vandenberg and Edwards Air Force Bases are the two California sites most likely to be considered for the project. Cranston said.

Florida, Texas, Utah and New Mexico are also being considered.

The California Democratic Senator was a leader of the successful fight in the Senate four weeks ago for appropriations for the huge new space program the successor to the Apollo moon flights.

The space shuttle project involves launching a space laboratory piggy-back on a rocket vehicle which will place the laboratory in space and then return to earth. The laboratory vehicle also will be capable of an earth landing.

Because both vehicles can be used over and over again, for up to perhaps 100 flights, there will be a tremendous reduction in costs in launching various satellites and other space vehicles, Cranston said.

An Apollo launch vehicle costs $200,000,000 and is not recoverable.

Cranston pointed out that California's aerospace industry "is in desperate straits and could decline even more if our state does not secure this project."

"In effect, the space shuttle as a national and international spaceport of the future," he said.

"We must make every effort to make sure the launch and recovery base is located in California. Billions of dollars and thousands of jobs are at stake. Indeed, the future of our aerospace industry and our leadership of that industry, is involved.

Cranston said he has asked Governor Ronald Reagan, Lt. Governor Ed Reniecke, Senator John Tunney and Republican and Democratic Congressional caucus leaders William S. Mailliard of San Francisco and Chet Holifield of Los Angeles to join him in forming a Space Shuttle Task Force in a bi-partisan effort to secure the NASA base for California.

In a telegram to the group, Cranston said:

"Because of the urgency of this question and its importance to our state, I suggest that you and I join in heading a bipartisan Space Shuttle Task Force to bring this project to California.

"The Space Shuttle Task Force would be composed of members of the California Congressional delegation, state officials from both the administrative and legislative branches and California business and labor leaders.

"I am confident that our own engineering, environmental and feasibility studies will demonstrate that California is the best possible location for the space shuttle base.

"There is no question that the selection of California is vital to the future of our aerospace industry. Thousands of jobs and hundreds of millions of dollars are involved."

Cranston warned that, although NASA was studying possible future sites for the base, the Congress has not yet given final approval of the project.

Various feasibility studies are underway now. California has some 1700 engineers and technicians working or million in design and feasbility contracts, he said. The Ralph Parsons Engineering Company is doing another study on site locations.

On the floor of the Senate four weeks ago an effort was made to cut back and possibly eliminate the program, Cranston said. Critics of the project claim that space research should be done with unmanned vehicles.

But Cranston said that "machines, no matter how sophisticated, can perform only limited functions in space,"

Cranston said he expects another effort will be made in the Congress next year to cut back or kill the space shuttle project.

"We will need to have a united California delegation, backed by our State Administration, to lead the fight for preserving the space shuttle and moving ahead with developing the base and vehicles," he concluded.

Fort Ord MPC Plan Experiment

A proposed experimental program through which Army officers and non-commissioned officers would attend Monterey Peninsula College part-time while stationed at Fort Ord was revealed by MPC President George J. Faul at Wednesday night's meeting of the college board of trustees.

Dr. Faul said he had been "approached" by Robert Rutt, Fort Ord education director, about the "Volunteer Army" and that "exploratory talks" had been held.

The proposal, which would probably be duplicated by colleges near two other Army bases-Fort Benning, in Georgia, and Fort Carson, in Colorada- would involve bringing busloads of Army personnel to MPC in the later afternoon to work toward Associate in Arts and Associate in Science uegrees or to complete various technical-vocational programs. Each man would probably take at least six units of study.

The program could add "about 4,000" part-time students to MPC's enrollment, Faul told the trustees, and could later be extended to recruits as a "volunteer army incentive" during their time at Fort Ord.

These recruits, whose studies would be abruptly terminated after their four-month training period, would presumably then be transferred to one of the other two Army bases in the "triangle" plan to continue study at the adjacent colleges.

If set up at MPC, the program would be conducted "at no cost to local taxpayers. The financing would be a matter of federal responsibility," Faul said.

He added, however that there are about 150 questions having to do with facilities, educational evaluation of the students, necessary library expansion and other matters that will have to be answered before any decision can be made.

The proposal will be discussed by the trustees at a special board meeting set for January 25.

Also discussed at that time will be a proposal, by Golden Gate College of San Francisco.

Awarded

Supervisor Williard Branson has announced that Alta Irrigation Company, Salinas, was awarded the contract for landscaping slopes on Laureles Grade Road approximately two miles northerly of Carmel Valley Road.

The work in general consists of planting 102 trees and shrubs and a one year establishment period has been included in the contract.

The area was the location of a slide which the Road Department removed during the construction of Carmel Valley Road at Miramonte. This contract will enhance the appearance of the slide area on California's first Scenic County Highway.

Count Basie To Appear at MPC Concert

The famed Count Basie and his orchestra, billed as "the most explosive force in jazz," will appear in the Monterey Peninsula College gymnasium February 15 in a two-pronged program- part concert, part dance- designed to satisfy both the listeners and the doers.

The program will start at 8 p.m. with the concert, featuring "The Count" on his "elliptical" piano and Mary Stallings on vocals.

At 9:30, there will be a half-hour intermission, after which the award-winning big band will play for dancing until midnight.

Planned as the final event of National Negro History Week on the Peninsula, Count Basie's forthcoming appearance at MPC is the brainchild of faculty members Mrs. Mary L. Story, with her Black Arts class and James Taylor, chairman of the Ethnic Studies Division.

Several local organizations are co-sponsoring the evening with the college and will cooperate on ticket sales. These include the Peninsula Branch of the NAACP, the Peninsula Strivers Club, the Elks Golf Club of Seaside, Les Grand Coeurs and Citadel Lodge, I.B.P.O.E. of W.

Tickes are on sale at the MPS community services office.

It's surprising how a person's voice can sound different over the phone if the mouthpiece is held too far away from the lips—like under the chin or touching the forehead. For best results it's a good idea to hold the mouthpiece directly in front of your lips—about 1½ inches away. Then when you talk as you normally do, the person on the other end will hear and understand better—and you'll sound like you.

It's time again to start thinking about next year's telephone directory. Yellow page advertisers in the Monterey directory will be contacted starting this week. The last day new or revised advertising can be accepted is May 13, 1971.

MPC Tour Will Visit Van Gogh Exhibit

A chartered bus tour to, and private viewing of , the Van Gogh exhibition of paintings and drawings at San Francisco's de Young Museum will be the highlight of several cultural events to be offered to the public by Monterey Peninsula College during January, Dr. Keith Merrill, MPC dean of community education, has announced.

The special art tour is planned for the evening of Friday, January 29, when a chartered bus will pick up participants at the college administration building at 4 p.m.

A registration fee of $12 will cover the escorted round trip, a box supper and admission to the museum, plus an introductory film and orientation.

The museum will be closed to the general public during the evening, but the Museum Sociaty Art Shop will be open. with catalogs reserved for purchase by tour members.

The nationally acclaimed show, which includes 68 paintings and 46 drawings by the great Dutch master, is the personal collection of Vincent Van Gogh's namesake and nephew.

Some 8,000 people showed up for its San Francisco opening and thousands are standing in line at the museem each dav.

After the exhibit closing January 31, the pictures will return to their permanent home, a new Van Gogh museum now being built in Amsterdam, Holland.
